OUR TRADE BALANCE

According to figures furnished by the Department of Commerce, the United States' favorable trade balance of $666,000,000 has been reduced to $323,000,000 by an adverse balance in invisible trade. During the past two or three months the balance of trade has been against the United States, although it is believed that the fiscal year will close June 30 with a balance in Uncle Sam's favor.

The figures pretty well refute the contention of free trade orators to the effect that unless the protective tariff law is repealed our balance of trade will grow so big that finally Europe, having no money will have to quit buying from us and our foreign trade will collapse. The tariff law has not been changed and our trade balance is much smaller than it was a year ago.

In fact, so many conditions enter international trade that the tariff plays a comparatively minor part in the trade balance situation. Among the things which must be taken into consideration are the vast sums spent in Europe by the American tourists, the money sent to relatives in Europe by immigrants in the United States, the money paid by American shippers to foreign ship owners in the way of carriage costs, and so on.

The free traders will have to figure up a different excuse for seeking to repeal the protective tariff than the one that it will impoverish Europe so that she can no longer buy our goods. Present day conditions completely refute that theory. There has been a tendency to exaggerate the commercial plight of some of the European nations. It is well to face the facts in order that we may not wake up some morning to learn that Europe has stolen several marches on us while we were asleep and dreaming about Europe's troubles.

A DIFFICULT HERO

Ordinarily the novelist or reporter or life-saver who wins an award by reason of the excellence of his work appreciates the token and honors his profession in accepting the distinction critics confer upon him. But Sinclair Lewis, who turned from the writing of pot boiling fiction-junk to write a best seller along lines he, alone thought to enjoy, has proved a difficult prize-winner. He will have none of the Pulitzer committee's thousand dollar prize.

Insofar as the judges of any such award might have influenced writing persons to conform to rules repugnant to the creative genius, the Pulitzer award is as bad as Mr. Lewis says it is. But we suspect this author of harboring a cranky streak. In an actress we would call it temperament and discount accordingly. Mr. Lewis, our readers may remember, spoke with great disparagement of the writing profession before the class in journalism at the University of Arizona last winter.

We suspect Mr. Lewis further of having an eye to the first pages. He made numbers of them by turning back the Pulitzer check. He got farther still; got into this column.

THE FIRST DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENT

Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, of the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom, and Father of the University of Virginia, became our third president. Jefferson was a Democrat, and his inauguration marked the beginning of forty years' control by the Democrats. Jefferson took his stand with the people. He was quite different from the Federalist presidents, Washington and Adams, in manners, ideas and dress.

It was about this time that a marked change took place in men's apparel. Breeches and long stockings began to give way to trousers. Washington and Adams had kept up something of the dignity and ceremony of a king, even though they were opposed to monarchy. But Jefferson preferred simplicity in all things and was ready to receive and shake hands with any one that wanted to shake hands with him.

Jefferson took the oath of office in the new capitol. It stood on a hill in the "City of Washington" then, but a straggling village of a few hundred inhabitants. The capitol was ridiculed at the time as a "place in the woods." Washington had himself chosen the ground for the city ten years before, and it was fitting that it should bear his name. Many people thought the new national capitol too far west, and would have preferred Philadelphia. Many eminent men of the day thought it doubtful whether the American republic could extend into the wilderness beyond the Allegheny mountains. Many believed that in time the country would be divided into several nations; they could not see how a territory reaching from the Atlantic to the Mississippi could be governed by a single president. When we consider that there were no railroads, steamboats or canals to bind the states together, it is not surprising that men of good judgement should have thought so.

NOVELTIES FOR PERSONAL AND HOUSEHOLD USE INTEREST NEEDLE-WORKERS

New Embroideries for Borders and Hooked Yarn Rugs in a Variety of Beautiful Colorings

By MONA MULLEN

THE overproduction of lovely machine embroideries serves a certain purpose, but it does not make hand embroidery any cheaper. So women of discriminating taste continue to adore the handmade garnitures to set aside their frocks as different, and constantly increasing numbers are learning to do needlework. The embroideries featured in these borders are especially designed for women whose experience in embroidery has been limited. The stitches are as simple as it is possible to make them, yet the effect of the work is extremely artistic.

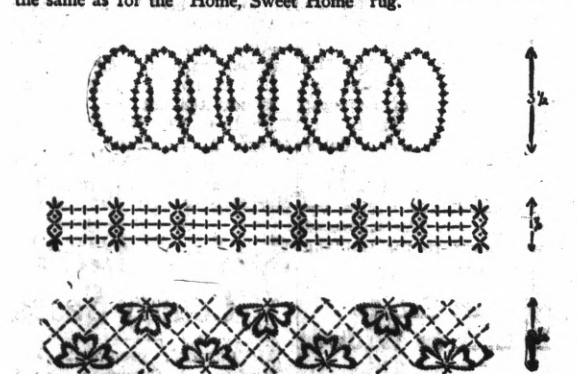

Hooked Yarn Rug No. 3012

trimming borders 1 1/2, 2 1/2, and 3 1/2 inches wide. They are equally smart for trimming dresses and tunic blouses. For their development, one-stitch, French knots, and lazy-daisy stitches may be used. Combined with bugle beads, small round beads, or nailheads, the stitches make exquisite borders.

A beautiful addition to the home is the hooked yarn rug, and two lovely examples are illustrated here which may be duplicated with little trouble within a very short time. The design marked with the words "Home, Sweet Home," set before the hearth or in any other conspicuous place, will awaken gentle thoughts of "The spot of earth supremely blest, a dearer, sweeter spot than all the rest." The colors required for its development are gray, white, forest-green, scarlet, burnt orange, mode, and black. The materials required are a rug needle, an embroidery or rug frame, and a bag of rug cement.

The second design has a pleasing quiet beauty that is equally appealing, and is especially appropriate for a young girl's room or milady's boudoir. The colors used are tan, fawn, colonial-green, white, black, Harding-blue, and antique blue. The materials required are the same as for the "Home, Sweet Home" rug.

Nature's Oddities

The farmer's progress in mastering nature for the use of man is strikingly shown in a series of horticultural research studies by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

XV. SALSIFY

What is it that looks like a turnip and tastes like an oyster? The answer is salsify, another practical but little known vegetable that is easy to grow and makes a pleasing variety on the table. This plant grows best in the north. The roots have their finest flavor after a decided frost has set in and may be left in the ground all winter. Care must be taken not to let it run wild as otherwise it may become a troublesome weed in one's garden. The roots are a foot or more in length and an inch through. Scrape and boiled they make a pleasing vegetable dish of rich flavor. Milk stews prepared with salsify make what might well be termed mock oyster stew, while yet another way of serving them is to slice, dip in milk and crackery crumbs and fry.

NOTHING SMARTER

The cape model is one of the most delightful variations of the straight-line dress. As pictured here, it is developed in figured Jersey trims with velvet. The cape swings jauntily from the shoulders and may be omitted if preferred. Buttons begin at the youthful little collar and extend all the way to the hem of the dress, saving them extending only a few inches below the knees. Medium size require: 4 yards 54-inch material, with 1 1/2 yard 40-inch satin for the lining of the cape.

FAVORITE CREOLE DISHES AND RECIPES

ON a recent visit to New Orleans I secured some of the famous old Creole recipes which I was told had attained popularity throughout Louisiana. The early French settlers taught their negro servants many secrets of the expert cookery for which their nation is famous. The negro "mamies" added certain savory touches of their own. The dishes that resulted became known as "Creole."

I soon found that only by using prepared foods does the busy modern housewife have time for this elaborate cookery of a day when servants were plentiful.

Corn, Creole Style—Cook 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper in 4 tablespoons butter. Add 4 tablespoons flour and 1 cup canned tomato soup, stirring until smooth. Season with a little salt, onion-juice and chopped parsley. Stir in 2 cups canned corn and heat thoroughly.

Peas a la Francaise—Turn contents of a can of peas into a saucepan. Add 1 herb bouquet, 1 lettuce-heart, 1 onion and 1 tablespoon butter, and let simmer a few minutes. Drain off liquor, remove onion and herb bouquet, and lay lettuce-heart on a dish. Add another serving add 2 cans of shrimp. Cook for five minutes, then pour peas over lettuce-heart. Serve hot with chops or cutlets.

Shrimp Gumbo Filé—Blend 1 tablespoon hot butter or lard with one of flour. Add 1 large white onion, chopped, and 3 sprigs parsley. Fry, and when brown add 1 chopped bay leaf and 1 sprig of thyme. Add 2 quarts oyster liquor and 1 quart water. Let come to a boil, and about five minutes before serving add 2 cans of shrimp. Take off stove and add 2 tablespoons "Filé" (powdered sassafras leaves), and 1 tablespoon flour. Season to taste with salt, black pepper, and a dash of cayenne. Serve hot with boiled rice. Okra may be used in place of "Filé."

HABITS PROVE POWERFUL FACTORS IN OUR LIVES

By S. W. STRAUS,
President American Society for Thrift.

"HABIT is second nature," said Montaigne, while a great Englishman, Lord Wellington, went even further and said, "Habit is ten times nature." There is an old proverb to the effect that it is "a thousand times easier to contract a new habit than to get rid of an old one."

S. W. STRAUS

The philosophers of the ages have given us observations as to the power and influence of habits and no one, we believe, will doubt the expediency of cultivating good habits and shunning those that are bad. We all can follow the good advice of St. Augustine that "habits if not resisted soon become necessity."

What has all this to do with thrift?

It has very much to do with it because those who set out to practice thrift have already won half the battle against bad habits. There is no surer way of developing a system of life that is uplifting and progressive than by practicing thrift. If you are thrifty you are not wasting your time in idleness nor your money in dissipation. You are not doing things that are tearing down your health. On the contrary you are spending your money, your time and your energies along lines that will be to your best interests.

The saving of one dollar in itself does not amount to so much. What really counts is the saving of one dollar regularly every month, every week or every day. It is the regularity of the practice not the amount involved that is helpful.

Learn to cultivate thrift, not for the mere saving of money, but as a habit that shall stabilize your entire system of living.

attended the school to see how Johnny was doing his work.

Other members of the Temple dressed as school children and presented their "recitations," dances and monologues.

Juniors Entertain Seniors Of Richmond Union High School At Annual Banquet

The senior class of the Richmond Union high school was entertained by the Junior class of the school last night at a banquet staged in the Junior high school auditorium.

All of the teachers of the school were present with the students.

The program, which was presented by the Junior class under the direction of Miss Nelle Warner, was agreed by all to be the best that was ever staged at the school.

It consisted of numerous acts of dancing and singing and monologues.

Following the dinner, the chairs and tables were removed and dancing was enjoyed.

The committee in charge of the affair had worked hard to make this an affair that would be long remembered by the out-going class, and according to the seniors, their efforts brought fruit.

Paul Basham was in charge of the program and his orchestra presented the music for dancing. Juliet Blumenfeld had charge of the decorating; Louise Kaiser prepared the place cards and Marie Samples had charge of the serving and the preparing of the meal.

Mother Admits the Slaying of Father Of Twelve Children

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, May 13.—A gray-haired mother tonight calmly admitted, according to the authorities, that she had administered a fatal dose of poison to the father of her twelve children. She expects to become a mother for the thirtieth time in August.

The woman is Mrs. Frances Kowalkowski, a Polish immigrant.

"Yes, I killed him, and I'm glad I did," she told Captain Joseph Palczynski, of the Chicago avenue police station.

"He had heard that everybody in America was rich, so he brought us here from Poland, expecting to get rich. He stayed as poor as ever, and that made him mean and cruel. I couldn't stand his curses any longer."

The woman's husband died May 4. At first no suspicion was attached to the widow. Then a brother of the dead man asked for an investigation. After arsenic was found in the viscera and a druggist told of selling sixty grains of the poison to Mrs. Kowalkowski, her arrest followed.

Chicago Makes Film Man a Full Fledged Fire Eating Demon

CHICAGO, May 14.—A suppressed ambition—a longing to be a fireman, came true for Louis Mayer today as he assumed the role of chief of the Chicago fire fighters. He was presented with his helmet and his badge by Chief Seyferlick at a banquet last night.

Mayer was the guest of honor at the banquet, attended by city officials and regional sales directors of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company.

Mayer commented that his organization is making a new picture now called the "Fighting Brigade" which will be a real fire picture.

"I'm not exactly a fire fan," Mayer said, "but there is something about seeing all of the apparatus come down the street and seeing the chugging out of the engine houses, the men hanging on with one hand, that naturally gets me."

"I've put in more work on this new picture than any six others. Some of the people at the lot think I'm crazy, but I want this picture right."

Mayer returned to Los Angeles tonight.

Frank J. Fost, formerly employed by the Standard Oil company here, is now a resident of Bakersfield. During the past two years he has been residing in El Segundo.

Recall of School Trustees Illegal Is Webb Ruling

Although a number of residents of the Antioch-Live Oak school district have petitioned the removal of the trustees of the school board because of the ill-feeling resulting from the board's action in consolidating the high school and grammar school under one head and thereby removing Roy Huffman from office, the trustees can not be removed from office through recall proceedings.

This is the ruling of Attorney General U. S. Webb who was asked for a decision by District Attorney A. B. Tinning. There is nothing in the California statutes, according to Webb, which provides for the recall of school trustees. Tinning was sure of this legal aspect of the question as he investigated all of the present statutes before calling upon Webb, but for fear that some obscure statute might contain such a clause, he asked the opinion of the attorney general.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Timmons will leave on a two-weeks trip to Los Angeles today.

Shepard and Allyn Win in Foursome At Carquinez Club

Charles Shepard, pro at the Carquinez golf links and R. Allyn, steward at the club defeated Fred X. Fry, prominent Oakland pro and J. E. Durand of the local club 2 up in an eighteen hole match yesterday.

Everything was fine throughout the game except that Fry was not acquainted with the cotton seed greens and fell down on his putting. Otherwise the forenoon had no trouble.

Shepard and Allyn's main defense was their putting and it was on this point of the game that they defeated their opponents.

Fry, who has played on some of the best courses in the country, declared that the Carquinez course is one of the best laid out courses in the East Bay district.

LOUISVILLE IN UPROAR OVER OF FAMED RACE

(By Universal Service)
DAMON HUNYON
(Copyright 1926 Universal Service)
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—That Chicago man with the cowbell and the cow puncher yell isn't functioning in a manner highly satisfactory to himself this evening, but otherwise the noise and excitement of the night before the great Kentucky Derby is all that it should be.

It seems that the manager of the Brown Hotel played a scurvy trick on the man with the cowbell and the yell. This man achieved more than local fame last year, when from a room looking out on the spacious court of the Brown, he rang the cow bell and yelled for two nights hand-running establishing what is believed to be the world's record for non-stop cow-bell ringing and yelling.

Nothing, however, that the manager had in the meantime received complaint from other guests who alleged that they wanted to get some sleep the night before the Derby, which seems an incredibly foolish idea. It is my opinion that they were jealous of the man with the cow bell and the yell because he made so much racket they could not hear their own tumult. Nothing annoys one more than to make a lot of noise and then not be able to hear it oneself.

But the manager of the Brown took the chance of the complaints and assigned the Chicago man to an obscure room over the coal bins, where he is said to be ringing and yelling with might and main at this time quite unheard by anyone save the night watchman.

It seems that the night watchman is partly deaf, and thinks the bell ringing and yelling is sweet music, coming from far away. Nothing annoys one more than to have a noisy neighbor who is deaf and thinks the noise is sweet music.

You couldn't say that the Chicagoan's yelling is missed, as there are others here and there about the crowded city of Louisville making it up, but no one else seems to have thought to have brought a cow bell. He had a monopoly in that field.

There was also some ad lib. or off hand singing going on tonight. The Singin' Kid stood in front of the Seelbach Hotel and at my special request rendered "My Old Kentucky Home" by way of providing musical atmosphere to the jammed streets.

The Singin' Kid who is a short, pudgy man with a pine nez clinging to the bridge of an equine nose, and who is known by his musical moniker around the race tracks all over the land, has a high, thin, snoring voice, and the passing throngs paused to listen.

Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, was discovered lending an attentive ear to the thrush-like notes of the Singin' Kid, and the Kid would have turned on the dapper Mayor's own "Will You Love Me In December As You Do In May," but he couldn't think of the words. Very few can.

The Mayor arrived here today with a party of friends and fellow citizens of old Manhattan Island, and Colonel Matt Wain, the debonair and affable head of Churchill Downs has requested Walker to present the gold cup that goes to the winner of the Kentucky Derby tomorrow, along with some $50,000 in real money.

Mayor Walker is not advised at this time as to whom he will present the cup, which seems very strange. He is about the only man in Louisville who doesn't know the probable winner of the Kentucky Derby tomorrow. I have personally been informed of no less than thirteen probable.

He wrote the manager of the Brown this year asking for that same room, it being his plan, as I understand it, to attempt to add twelve hours to his record. "It seems, however, that the manager had in the meantime received complaint from other guests who alleged that they wanted to get some sleep the night before the Derby, which seems an incredibly foolish idea. It is my opinion that they were jealous of the man with the cow bell and the yell because he made so much racket they could not hear their own tumult. ## PULLMAN BEES TO OPEN SEASON

The Pullman Bees or Juniors will open their season tomorrow in the Class B Spalding league, when they go up against the Macabees team at Bushrod Park, Berkeley. The team was just organized recently and by the pep shown in their first game the officials are confident that the Bees will make a good showing in the league this year.

Sportographs

Habe Ruth, King of Swat is now even with his record made in 1921. On Thursday he slammed out 2 home runs, bringing his record for the year up to 10. Since he has gotten a start, the Babe has been slugging the runs, right and left. Ruth has collected his last six homers in nine days.

CARDS TO DEFEND TITLE

MORE TRACK
Over three hundred athletes will compete today in the annual San Francisco Athletic league track meet at the Kezar Stadium, San Francisco. There are two meets scheduled. In the forenoon the heavyweight men will meet. Nine of the ten members of the S. F. A. L. will compete. The Potter school boys will compete in the afternoon. The only school not entering is the one from the University of California. The latter school has the best chance of annexing the honor.

IRONWORKERS DEFEAT THE SANTA FE NINE

HARRY LANGDON AT HIS BEST IN 'TRAMP TRAMP'

Harry Langdon exceeds expectations. We thought he would be good. Now we know that he is great. He is as great a comedian as Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd.

"Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," which had a premiere showing at the California Theatre last night, definitely establishes Langdon as a top-notch comedian among film comedians. He is beyond the shadow of a doubt as funny an actor as has ever been seen in the film.

Langdon's humor is enigmatical. He is the picture of innocence involved in all sorts of complications. Harry Edwards, who has been the country and into all manner of difficulties. He is launched over a precipice, is set to work on a rock pile and he is caught in a cyclone.

The cyclone episode is particularly funny. It is so funny that the wind blew with such terrific velocity that the cameramen who photographed the scene were lashed by trees and posts to prevent being blown away.

Beautiful Joan Crawford plays opposite the comedian. The rest of the highly able cast includes Tom Murray, Edwards Davis, Alice Francis and Brooks Benedict.

Harry Edwards, who has been associated with Langdon for some time, directed "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp."

Other features include "Moving Day," a comedy based on "The Married Life of Helen and Warren," "Travel Treasure," a screen description of Dorothy Brand's stage success "The Outsider," which opened yesterday for its first local presentation at the Richmond Theatre. The production ranks with the best releases issued this year by the William Fox organization.

Made under the direction of Rowland V. Lee, "The Outsider" may be said to be the finest story of gypsy life ever offered to the public. It is a picture of the life of these people has been woven the characterization of a Roman gypsy chieftain and his love affair for a beautiful English dancer who is despised and feared him. The conflict of emotions by which the gypsy brings tragedy into the girl's life is realistically told in the unfolding of the story.

You will find Jacqueline Logan as the fascinating dancer whose glamorous life was suddenly shadowed by disaster and Lou Tellegen as the mysterious gypsy whose sinister powers prevailed when all else failed. This film is a welcome departure from the ordinary run of pictures. It is well made and splendidly acted.

Other features include "The Haunted House," Buster Keaton's funniest comedy, "Magical Movies," a Hodge Podge variety.

REPORTS OF UNIONS
The Laundry Workers initiated two new members at their last meeting and expect to recruit four more members in the near future. Furthermore, they nominated candidates for national officers. The election will take place by a referendum vote of the trade.

The union had a successful entertainment Saturday May 8th. The lunch, refreshments and dance contributed largely to the meeting and many of old members from distant places.

The business among the Cooks, Waiters and Waitresses is prospering; few men are out of work and the union could furnish employment to one hundred, more waitresses.

The Barbers' officials have visited Pittsburgh in an effort to settle a controversy with one of their members. The latter was fined and further action on the part of the union may be necessary.

The Pottery workers expect full attendance at their meeting May 17, to receive the report of their grievance committee.

The delegates of other unions reported progress.

NEW BUSINESS
After a lengthy discussion on the agreement between the Laundry Workers and the Barbers' Unions, the secretary was instructed to ask the Barbers' Union and the Master Barbers Association if there should not be a possibility for them to bring about the cancellation of their contracts with non-union laundries of Oakland, and thus be in a position to patronize Richmond Towel Supply Laundry in which the workers are one hundred per cent organized.

Under good and welfare Brother George Clark gave an interesting talk on Industrial Evolution versus Unionism.

The meeting adjourned at 9:30 p.m. to meet again May 29th. Respectfully submitted, JULES SCARCELAUX Secretary.

Melodrama and Romance in Film At the Richmond

Melodrama and romance—mystery and thrills. These are the ingredients found in "The Outsider," an elaborate and beautiful screen description of Dorothy Brand's stage success "The Outsider," which opened yesterday for its first local presentation at the Richmond Theatre. The production ranks with the best releases issued this year by the William Fox organization.

Gall Bladder Troubles Gone! To Whom It May Concern: For over a year I had trouble in my gall bladder, pain on my right side, vomiting and a general rundown condition. On February 23rd of this year I had an attack of appendicitis, the pain of which was so severe that I could not sleep at night. I came to see the Chew & Chew herbaria and after taking one dose of herbs I was greatly relieved. I continued to take the herbs for a few more weeks and I am all well now. March 14, 1926. LUCILLE HOWSON, 450 9th Street, Richmond, Cal.
